Nahma Woman Sees 3 Bears

Cubs Were Ambling In Front Of Church

Nahma, Mich. - Mrs. Mike Washut had quite a surprise one morning not long ago when she saw three bear cubs crossing from the front of St. Andrew's church. It was early as Mr. Washut had just left for work and she just happened to be looking out of the window. One of her little boys also got in on the sight. The neighborhood dogs running through the woods must have chased the little animals out, but the mother bear must have been quite close. Several residents have reported seeing fawns around town even close to noon they also probably were scared up by dogs.

Antiques Are Many And Varied At U. P. Fair

The Antique Department this year at the Upper Peninsula State Fair is one of the most interesting spots on the second floor of the main exhibition building.

Effectively displayed in glass enclosed cases and on backdrops are treasured heirlooms of every variety. #### Liquor Commission Hearing On Ouster Of World Revealed Gen. Kunzig Postponed

Lansing, Aug. 17 (AP)—The civil service hearing on the controversial ouster of Brig. Gen. L. A. Kunzig as state liquor commission business manager, has been postponed.

Arthur G. Rasch, State Civil Service director, said the hearing, scheduled for Aug. 22, would be held late in August or early in

John A. Kozaren of the commision, contended the Aug. 22 date did not allow enough time to prepare their cases for the hearing, Rasch said.

Kunzig was ordered dismissed by the two-man Democratic majority of the commission on the grounds of "economy." He and Harry Henderson, the sole Republican commissioner, have charged the dismissal was political.

Governor's Day At U. P. State Fair

THURSDAY is Governor's Day at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba. It is also Escanaba Day and Delta County Day at the fair and a majority of business places in the county will close at noon Thursday to permit their personnel to attend the exposition.

Residents of the Upper Peninsula in general and Delta county in particular are happy on this occasion to welcome Governor G. Mennen Williams at Escanaba and to show him, through the medium of the U. P. State Fair, some of the developments of the great State of Michigan.

Around Lake Michigan Tours Popular

ESCANABA is profiting this summer from the around Lake Michigan tours that are being promoted by Ball Tours, Carton Tours and other travel agencies. In addition, Escanaba is an overnight stop on coast-to-coast tours that are being promoted by these agencies.

Around Lake Michigan tours are reported to be especially popular with vacationists. For a specified reasonable sum, the tourists are taken on guided tours to points of interest enroute. Lodging, meals and side trips are all arranged by the travel agency. The matter of tips, for instance, is also handled by the tour manager.

Chartered air-conditioned buses are used for the conducted tours. Several buses have been making overnight stops in Escanaba weekly this summer. It is the kind of vacation that appeals to many folks who wish to vsiit the various places of historic and scenic interest, with the problems of traveling taken care of by experienced tour managers.

TYPICAL CAPITAL FIGURE

You begin with the Vaughan temperament. Vaughan displays to his intimates the good-natured friendliness of a Newfoundland dog. He wants to be patted, to be admired, and the only difficulty is that now and then he thinks he is a lap dog.

As secretary and chief assistant to Truman when he was in the senate, Vaughan was useful and unfailingly loyal. When plain that they were getting the run-around from this bureau or that agency, Vaughan would get on the phone and fix it up. He suggests, in fact, a rather common type in the maze of bureaucratic Washington-the good guy who knows the right people and who, for a price, or, maybe, for nothing at all but a lot of gratitude, a few drinks and a good dinner can solve your little problem.

Translated to the White House, Vaughan fiund himself in an element that was at first not to his liking. The office of military aide is an empty one, its function being largely ceremonial. The general had a lot of time on his hands.

As with everyone else near the seat of power, Vaughan found himself importuned by former friends seeking favors out of government. He might properly have replied, as did others in the president's official family, that he had no business intervening in this or that department.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

(Editor's Note-While Drew Pearson is on brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN Washington.-Consistency is no jewel in the Truman administration.

At his most recent press conference, Presdent Truman staunchly defended his old friend and military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, under headline fire in the senate's "5 per-center" probe. At the same time the president was doing that, a member of his cabinet was cracking down on a subordinate accused of accepting insignificant Christmas gifts from business friends.

The cabinet member is Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer. The subordinate is Charles Lund, chief of the fats and oils branch of the commerce food section.

Lund is accused of accepting a $2 bottle of a Cuban cordial and a $1.50 necktie from two business friends last Christmas.

Although Lund has a 14-year-record of able and conscientious government service, he was ordered before a board on the ground of "wrongfully accepting gratuities." He testified he supplied the businessmen merely with routine information that the commerce department makes available to all inquirers.

But while Lund faces possible severe disciplinary action, General Vaughan is warmly patted on the back by the president of the United States.

PATRONAGE GRABBER

Leading reason for the house's vehement refusal to continue the so-called joint Marshall plan "watchdog" committee is a lush patronage empire built up by Senator Pat McCarran, D., Nev., committee chairman.

McCarran has 21 staff employees, most of them holdovers from the 80th congress. A number draw five-figure salaries; in one case, as much as members of congress. That isn't all. McCarran also wants an additional $76,000 for still more patronage padding. He asked for $334,000 budget on the ground he wants to send a flock of agents to Europe to check on ECA spending.

The house twice flatly refused to coninue the "watchdog" committee. McCarran got senate approval, and the issue is now being battled out in conference, with the house members refusing to budge.

Following is the list of top hands on Mc-Carran's patronage payroll: Agent General Charles Dewey, $15,000. Former Republican congressman from Illinois, Dewey is the highest-paid com-

row are Queens Gladys Freeland of Manistique, Janet Lezotte of Munising, Yvonne Tall of Ishpeming, Judy White of Gladstone, Alice Today of Iron River, Mary Nona Christenson of Ironwood, Lavona Grondine of Hermansville, Lucille Tormala of Chassell and Lois Wiseman of Skandia. All queens entered in the U. P. Fair competition received prizes. Here they are wearing their formal attire, used for their final grandstand appearance at the announcement and coronation last night. Each queen also wore an appropriate costume depicting the theme she represented.

One of these marks is in the form of a circle with a crossline in the center. The other is two straight lines running criscross over two other parallel lines. The latter is believed by some old timers to be one of the marks used by the Chicago Lumber Company. John I. Bellaire, who has a book containing a complete set of such marks and who from personal experience has been personally familiar with such things, has been unable to identify the marks.

Log marks like cattle brands, he says, were sometimes altered to suit the purposes of the unscruplous. One case along the Manistique river, he says, made logging history. Certain parties, thinking they had come upon a way to make easy money, sawed a few inches off the butts of logs and put their own marker on them The newness of the log ends impression of the real owner came catching the sly invaders. out perfectly clear.

Workshop Will Open On August 24

An Upper Peninsula Mental Health "workshop" is to be need in Gladstone on Wednesday Thursday and Friday, August 24-26 under the sponsorship of the education division of the state department of mental health.

An outstanding group of consultants in the mental health field has been obtained for the meeting, according to Maryalice Quick, of the state department of mental health.

The primary purpose of the workshop is to provide an opportunity for persons who are interested in doing work in community groups to become more familiar with mental health and development of mental health programs for lay groups.

Emphasis will be placed on mental health films and their use as community aids. Opportunities also will be available for work on individual and common problems.

Representatives of Parent-Teacher Associations, child study clubs, and ministers are invited to attend the meeting. Books and materials will be supplied at the 'workshop' by the committee in

It was a warm Sunday morning after a night of wind and rain. Jim Fisher, Michigan Bell installer, and his wife were strolling leisurely home from church. Every now and then Jim would glance up at the telephone cable overhead:

Suddenly he stopped. "There's one for the boys, Mary," he said, pointing at a section of the cable that was rubbing against a tree limb: "I'll report it first thing in the morning. That limb would eventually rub through the cable sheath and interrupt service."

Like Jim Fisher, some 5,000 Michigan Bell installers, repairmen, linemen, splicers, and field engineers are constantly on the alert, detecting trouble in the making. Both on and off the job, they make it a point to report conditions along the telephone voiceways that look wrong to them. It's all part of our "Trouble Zone" program, a program designed to keep service interruptions from happening. Whenever outside plant employees see anything that might lead to trouble, such as damaged cable, they promptly report the condition and it is taken care of.

This "detective force," 5,000 strong, has uncovered many "unsatisfactory conditions." Some would have caused immediate trouble and costly repairs. Others would have caused trouble later on:
